FOX BROS. IN NEW HOUSE

Their Poultry Plant and Creamery A Model Of Convenience.

The Fox Bros. Co., moved into their new plant at First and Railroad streets a few days ago and are now better fitted up for business than before the fire last summer. Their new cold storage room has a capacity of 130,000 cubic feet and will hold at one time 60 carloads of butter worth $240,000 or 48 cars of fowls worth $125,000.

Everything is new and arranged with every convenience. The wired coops outside the building are 60 feet square and will hold more than 2,000 fowls at one time. The big slaughtering room has a concrete floor and no detail has been overlooked to facilitate the killing and packing of poultry.

The season is now opening and the company is paying 8 cents for hens and 11 cents for turkeys. This is somewhat cheaper for turkeys than the prices were last season, but one cause is that the storage houses of New York, Boston and Chicago carried over from last December 3,000, 000 pounds of poultry which must be sold in the next 30 days. This cold storage stock is to be thrown on the Thanksgiving market to compete with the fresh stock. Another factor is that the dry summer was very favorable to raising poultry and the 1914 crop is larger than for several years.

Will and Frank Fox are again in charge of the offices, which are located on the east side of the building. Early shipments of fowls are coming in, but the killing has not yet been commenced.

Lines Unmoved As Armies Battle On

Claims of Foes in Both Eastern and Western Fields Are Widely at Variance and Real Result of Conflicts Are Unknown.

BRITISH REJOICE OVER END OF EMDEN.

Germans Continue Violent Attacks on Allies Near Ypres, But Have Been Unable to Break Through to Coast.

London, Nov. 11.—Widely different claims of contending armies in the eastern and western theaters of war, especially concerning the West Flanders situation, have left but one big undisputed fact on land or sea. That was the destruction of the German raider Emden and the trapping of the German cruiser Koenigsburg, the latter in a palm-lined East African river under circumstances which read as though they were taken from Stevenson.

The British marine insurance rate almost instantly was cut in half, for never since the days of the Alabama has there been such a successful commerce destroyer as the Emden. Cheers broke forth at Lloyd's on the announcement, and for the moment the struggles of the armies in France, Belgium, Russia and elsewhere were forgotten.

Yet all these armies were at each other's throats—the Germans and Russians clashing in cavalry engagements along the German frontier, the Russians still harassing the Austrians in Galicia, and the French, British and Belgians uniting to hold back what appears to be a tremendous German attempt to break through the allied lines in the vicinity of Ypres.

Many dispatches speak of the movement of German troops eastward from Belgium as indicating the need of reinforcements along the eastern frontier, but neither the French nor German official statements indicated any slackening in the violence of German attacks in West Flanders. In fact, the French statement says that between the sea and Arras the opposing forces were both acting on the offensive.

As to the outcome of this double offensive the rival contentions are contradictory, the Germans claiming slow progress near Ypres and the French asserting that the German attack was beaten back. In view of what seems to be a sustained and concerted German effort in this region, the reports of the German retirement are hardly borne out, although it is said they have moved their headquarters still further east, this time from Ghent to Alost.

The situation along the battle line in France proper, from the standpoint of the allies, was summed up in a dispatch from an "observer with the Indian corps," who says there has been no marked change anywhere, though he professes to see a gradual weakening of German attacks.

Aside from the military aspects of the war, what stood out boldest was Germany's reported threat to cut off food the United States is sending to Belgium, if the Belgians did not return to their cities and make an effort to resume their normal occupations. The Belgian answer is that it has been impossible to resume assembly of normal activity because the German soldiery has commandeered all implements and materials necessary to an industrial revival.

The British government issued another so-called white paper, reviewing the incidents which preceded the declaration of war against Turkey. It deals in the main with the Goeben and Breslau affair, and sets forth that the grand vizier all along was at least ostensibly against dragging Turkey into the conflict, but either war powerless to resist Enver-Bey and his associates, or while outwardly opposing them, was winking at the fast approaching crisis, while the Turkish and German preparations went forward.

BEAUTIFUL WEDDING

Miss Katherine Long Becomes Bride of Mr. Pettus White At Christian Church.

GONE ON SOUTHERN TRIP.

Many Out-of-town Guests Were Present On The Happy Occasion.

Beautifully and impressively, the ceremony that linked the destinies of Mr. S. Pettus White and Miss Katherine Long, was performed at the First Christian church yesterday morning at 8:30 o'clock, Rev. H. D. Smith officiating.

The spacious auditorium was filled with the friends of the happy young couple, many from out of town.

The ushers were Messrs Henry T. Stites, Geo. W. Lackey, Ira D. Smith and Manning Brown. Mrs. H. H. Perkins sang "Beauty's Eyes" and Mrs. Clayton Daggs Richards rendered Lohengrin's wedding march as the bridal party entered and Mendelssohn's as they retired from the church. Soft music was played during the ceremony.

The ushers entered in pairs, Messrs Stites and Lackey by one aisle and Messrs Smith and Brown by the other and took their places on either side of the pulpit.

Miss Elizabeth Grinter, of Cadiz, maid of honor, preceded the bridal couple, bearing a huge bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums. Little Miss Elizabeth Tandy, as flower girl, came next carrying a basket filled with chrysanthemums.

The bride and groom entered together by the left aisle and ascended the steps to the pulpit, where they were met by Rev. H. D. Smith and Mr. Pollard White, the best man. The beautiful ring ceremony was used, the groom repeating the pledge "With this ring I thee wed and with all my worldly goods I thee endow." The ceremony was brief and appropriate and concluded with a short prayer.

The bride was clad in a blue traveling suit of broadcloth, the groom in a dark suit. The bride's shower bouquet of white chrysanthemums was passed to the maid of honor during the ring ceremony, and returned at the conclusion. Mr. and Mrs. White were driven at once to the Louisville & Nashville depot and left on the Dixie Flyer for a southern bridal trip.

The groom is a young attorney of unusual promise, highly educated in his profession, possessing ability of a high order, and is a gifted vocal musician. He is a son of the late John F. White, of Cadiz, and is a nephew of Judge J. T. Hanbery.

The lovely bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. C. Long, and one of Hopkinsville's most charming girls. She possesses beauty, brightness and a most lovable character. Like her husband, she is an accomplished musician.

Among the guests from out of town were the following:

Mrs. Cordie White, the groom's mother; Mr. Pollard White, his brother, and Mrs. White; Mr. and Mrs. Ben White, Mrs. Susie Bell Dunn, Mrs. Clarence Grinter, and Misses Mary and Elizabeth Grinter, all of Cadiz; Mrs. Fred Hawkins, the groom's sister, of Richmond, Va., and Mrs. Jno. T. Savage, the groom's aunt, of St. Louis, Mo.

KENTUCKY IS QUARANTINED

The Foot and Mouth Disease Of Cattle Has Invaded The State.

SYMPTOMS OF THE DISEASE.

Mortality Is Low But Its Contagious Character Makes It Much Dreaded.

Three cases of foot and mouth disease were found at Shepherdsville Monday by Dr. William Smith and Dr. Bond, federal inspectors. The infected cattle were shipped from the Chicago stock yards to the Bourbon stock yards, at Louisville. This is the first appearance of the disease in Kentucky. Bullitt county will be quarantined immediately.

J. W. Newman, secretary of agriculture, immediately ordered Bullitt county quarantined against all shipments of cattle and ordered the Bourbon stock yards quarantined against all shipments except for immediate slaughter.

The federal government on Tuesday added Kentucky to the list of quarantined States.

Agricultural Agent W. C. Richardson in conversation with the Kentuckian representative, said the utmost caution will have to be used to avoid the spreading of the disease. It is spread by contact of the germs and the first thing to do, is to keep cattle of all kinds at home. Keep them away from all sources of infection and prompt and vigorous action will soon eradicate the disease in Kentucky. As yet it is nearly 200 miles from Hopkinsville and there is no cause for alarm.

It is well, though, for the people to inform themselves about the disease, as it may have to be dealt with.

This disease is an acute, highly contagious fever of a specific nature, characterized by the eruption of vesicles, or blisters, in the mouth, around the coronets of the feet, and between the toes.

Its ravages are not confined to cattle. Hogs, sheep, goats, horses, dogs, cats and even poultry being liable to attack. The disease prevails in European countries and causes great losses. The actual mortality is low, but serious losses result from the loss of milk and flesh in animals. Its every appearance in America has been quickly suppressed. The government has taken hold of it this time with great energy and quarantines have been established in fourteen States.

The disease is first indicated by the animal suffering from a chill, quickly followed by fever, which may rise to 106 degrees. In one or two days small vesicles about the size of peas, appear upon the mucous membranes of the mouth at the border and upper surface of the tongue near the tip, inside of the cheeks, on the gums and the inner surface of the lips, or on the margin of the dental pad. These contain a yellowish watery fluid and gradually become more extensive as the disease advances. Soon after the eruptions have appeared in the mouth, it will be noticed that there is a considerable redness, swelling and tenderness manifested about the feet. Eruptions similar to those in the mouth appear a day or two later. On milk cows the udders show the same vesicles, which may turn to deep obstinate fissures. The disease may run its course in 10 to 20 days or it may take several months for the animal to entirely recover. The mortality seldom exceeds 1 to 5 per cent, except to calves fed on infected milk. Of these 60 to 80 per cent die.

CHANCE TO GET STOVE FREE

A Demonstration of Combined Range at Waller & Trice Co's. Begins To-day.

In order to introduce a new combined coal and gas stove, the Waller & Trice Company will give a cooking demonstration at their store today, Friday and Saturday. Incidentally they will give away absolutely free, one of the full size kitchen ranges fitted to use either gas or coal or both at one time. A numbered ticket will be given to every grown person who applies for it and the one holding the corresponding number to the one drawn at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon will be made a present of the stove. There are no strings tied to this offer and no purchase is necessary to get the ticket.

This stove is made by the Art Stove company, of Detroit, and the demonstration here will be conducted by Jack Murphy, an experienced man in this work. The demonstration will be carried on right in the big show window of the store and during the three days coffee and biscuit will be served to those who call.

Much is claimed for this new combined stove and it is to get it prominently before the people that this form of introduction has been decided upon. The manufacturers say it is really two stoves in one, thereby meaning big saving in price, making it more convenient and less trouble
